Re: United States v. Sayfullu Habibullaevic Saipov, S1 17 Cr. 722 (VSB)

Dear Judge Broderick:

The parties jointly write to request the following schedule for the penalty phase: the Government will start its case on Monday, February 13, 2023, and expects to rest on Tuesday, February 21, 2023. The defense would then start its case on Wednesday, February 22, 2023. To accommodate travel schedules, to abide by the parameters of the paroles for the defense witnesses, and to permit time for the defense to prepare witnesses in person once they arrive in the United States, the parties also request (i) that the jury be prepared to sit on Friday, February 24, 2023, though it may not be necessary and (ii) that the Court not sit on Monday, February 27, 2023.

Respectfully submitted,

DAMIAN WILLIAMS
United States Attorney

The penalty phase will begin on Monday, February 13, 2023. My chambers will reach out to all 18 jurors today to inform them of the new start date, and assure them that this adjournment will not impact the trial end-date. The parties shall inform my chambers by 3:00 PM today if they object to this approach. In addition, during tomorrow's conference, we will discuss the details of the schedule and additional information that we can provide to the jurors.
